When should I seek treatment for my wound at a Wound Healing Center?

Ask your doctor about visiting our Wound Healing Center if:

- You've had a sore that won't heal for more than 30 days (commonly experienced by people with diabetes).
- You have a sore with increasing pain, redness or swelling, foul odor, or a change in color.
- You have a surgical wound that has become infected.

What to bring to your first appointment:

- A list of any medications you're currently taking as well as any allergies you're aware of.
- Medical records including x-ray films if you have them.
- Insurance forms or cards.

Proven success
in a caring supportive environment.

How to start healing:

- 1 Generally, the physician currently treating you will refer you to our Center for specialized care. You can also make an appointment directly.
- 2 When you call for your first appointment, we will ask you a few questions about your wound and your health in general.
- 3 Before treatment, our team of doctors and nurses will thoroughly evaluate your wound and review your health and medical history.
- 4 Tests may be conducted to tell us more about your blood flow and tissue oxygenation as well as to determine if there's any infection present.
- 5 Together with your physician, we'll develop a treatment program based on your special needs.
- 6 We are in constant communication with your doctor throughout your care. Once your wound is healed, you'll return to your doctor for follow-up care.
